

CEO Stuart J. Mitchell Announces CFO Opening

PathStone Corporation is recruiting a Chief Financial Officer to replace the current CFO who is retiring after 39 years of exemplary service. PathStone is a private not-for-profit regional human service and community development Corporation with an annual budget of $70 million and programs and services operating in seven states and Puerto Rico.

The CFO is a key member of the corporate executive team and has primary responsibility for managing and controlling all financial activity for the Corporation. The CFO will have direct responsibility to oversee accounting, budgeting, cash management, forecasting, strategic planning, investor relationships, and financial reporting to government agencies, grantors, partners, and lenders. The CFO is responsible to maintain, develop, and monitor internal financial procedures and controls for the Corporation and all subsidiary corporations.

Minimum requirement of a BS; a CPA and/or MBA preferred. Must have 10 + years experience working in a senior financial management role; working for a not-for-profit organization with multi fund accounting is highly preferred. PathStone embraces the principles of equity, diversity and inclusion in executing its mission.
