"I never dreamt I would own a business in Springfield, much less buy a 4,000-square-foot 1930s commercial building on Main Street last year."

"Our project would not have happened without LISC Jacksonville," said James Smith, one of the partners who bought and renovated a building, according to Devin Thompson, economic development officer for LISC Jacksonville. "This project touched on all the various pieces that LISC can bring to the table."
